

Public Talk: Innovative Research on
Little Blue Penguins
Tues 13th July 2010

Time: 7pm to 8pm

Location: Puke Ariki
Museum (North Wing)
upstairs.

Come to this public talk by marine biologist Philippa Agnew and hear about the innovative new research on
Little Blue Penguins.

The Oamaru Blue Penguin Colony is one of the most visited colonies in New Zealand - over 75,000 people each year!

Marine biologist, Philippa Agnew, reveals her extensive knowledge of the colony and gives insight into her potentially ground breaking research project which hopes to reveal where penguins go to feed at sea.
